

Mentoring

Why Individual mentoring for leaders?

Leadership is developing fast. There are many programs available to influence your leadership style in a practical way. However, only few of those programs are highly effective and align with your leadership in speaking.

Are you in change- management, business-transition or are you ready to become a highly effective leader in your field? Presentation-Master can be your solution to move from sending your message, to communicate with people and have the desired result as an outcome.

It doesn't matter how often you speak, it is how effective you are in communicating your message.

Are you a CEO, CFO, CIO or thought-leader in another field?

Are you creating the impact you want and need right now?

Would you be satisfied if your latest presentation or speech would go viral on the internet?

No? Than it is time to get ready for the new visibility!

What does the individual mentoring contain

We will start with a personal intake to discover your personal needs, and to set your personal goals. We take a close look at your current presenting skills and your desired level of performance.

We work with a current presentation to show you on the spot how to boost this with impact. This can be with or without visuals like PowerPoint.

Than it is time for action; we make time for a lot of personal practise because that is what you need to be a better performer and speaker. Step by step you gain a new self-esteem that you have never experienced before.

After completing the program with an individual presentation, you'll receive a certification of 'Presenting with impact'.

All the practising will be recorded for individual use, so you can learn by watching it yourself.

How do I start?

If you want to improve yourself from looking good in front of an audience, to making real impact and difference, then it is time to contact us.

Before we start we have a personal intake to make sure we are the right fit. The intake is free.
